giroflex 64

Over 1.5 million of the giroflex 64 have been sold worldwide. This kind of success is no coincidence – this classic chair represents the unification of design and ergonomics at its highest level.

The giroflex 64 chair series by Walser Design combines formal appeal with technical perfection. Its quality features are the scientifically tested ergonomics, the multitude of individual settings, the high level of comfort and distinctive design. These swivel chairs have been created for active sitting. Simply and conveniently adjusted to your needs from any sitting position.

Support at the workplace. The giroflex 64 has a dual zone seat profile: the rear part of the seat supports the pelvic area and prevents the occupant from sliding forward. The front part of the seat has a 7° forward tilt to relieve pressure on the thighs. The proven Organicmove point-synchronized mechanism – the chair's power and movement centre – enables an idealized form of active sitting. Individual adjustments like seat depth and backrest height can be conveniently made whilst seated.

giroflex 64
Executive chair

giroflex
designed to work

giroflex 64

Comfort is not so much a word for the giroflex 64 executive chair – it's an attitude. It supports you in demanding situations and facilitates important decision making in a relaxed way.

Commensurate with its position on the managerial floor, the executive chair embodies strength of character and independence: its ergonomic seat and backrest profile make it a reliable support on the job and won't become uncomfortable even when working late. It also makes individual adjustment flexible enough to match the most varied working styles.

giroflex 64

You don't have to feel like a marathon runner after a marathon sitting: the 64 series visitor's chairs offer the highest levels of comfort.

The visitor's chairs are available in four-legged and cantilever versions, the conference chairs with 5-arm base. The six models with or without armrests are just as much at home in the conference room as in living rooms. There is a choice of fabric and leather covers in many colours. Optional extras with comfort upholstery, chromium-plated base and padded armrests round off this comprehensive range. Perfect comfort makes even longer meetings enjoyable.
